Since the application of the art of Engraving to the commercial use of paper currency, a period of more than 50 years, it has been the object of all the parties interested to secure their issues against the liability of alterations of titles, and the raiding, or substitution of higher denominations of value; but, so far, that desirable object has never been accomplished, for upon the 144 fac-similes of genuine Bank-Notes contained in the very first number of this Encyclopedia, there are 78 altered, raised and spurious notes now in circulation.

These sporious and altered Notes are generally the issues of exploded and broken Banks, which, being originally executed by a regular bank notes-engraving firm for an originally solvent bank, of coorie compare, in point of workmanship, i.e., with issues of solvent banks generally. The circulation of the exploded banks is very frequently obtained after failure by dishonest parties who at once make it forci business to erace the title and location of the broken bank, and either by passing or reprinting in the title of some bank in food circuit, and altering the location to correspond, succeed in fusiting these altered notes upon the public as good money, because the general character of the work has a genuine armsenance.
